BARTON of the Carbondale 'New Era, beautifully and pathetically says: "We have always had a high regard for friend Oberly of the Cairo BULLETIN. He pub-' lishes one of the best and sprightless papers 'in the state. He seems to be equal to 'any emergency, but the results of the late election have had a demoralizing effect upon his status, and we deeply sy.n-'pathize with him in his mixed condition. But after due deliberation he has concluded to take St Paul's 'advice, and be all things to all politicians, 'and has equa lized his time with them."

But the politicians are too bashful to court us any longer. Our former Democratic friends, who called often to enligten our mind with the bright light of their minds, have abandened us most cruelly to Pope and Linegar. We are almost lost, but it is our misfortune not our fault.

THE rash Massac 'Journal' actually remarks that it is absolutely ashamed that Cairo with so many great men to sound its praise in the pelitical world, should be poverty stricken in the way of a Republican editor; that the 'Sun' is "a source of 'disgust to its own townsmen and the Re-'publican party of the district; that its circulation and influence is of no consequence whatever; that its editor has more cars than brains." The 'Journal' is unjust. The 'Sun' is as sprightly as it can be-it is as good a paper as its patronage will justify it in being, and certainly its Republicanism is sound. It takes down every party nostrum with a relish, and it swears by the administration. What more could be expected of it? Must the 'Sun' and BULLETIN be abused by their Republican cotemporaries? We both do the best we can, and if that ain't enough tell us, oh, Jones of the 'Journal,'

THE BLECTORAL VOTE OF THE LIBERALS

THE votes of the presidential electors of the Southern States were nearly all cast on Wednesday last against President Grant, and in favor of Governor Hendricks. Under the circumstances, this was a very ungracious act, and demonstrated clearly that the dominant sentiment at the South is not prepared to practice the doctrine of forgiveness, which it so loudly preaches. The Southern people, who lately were engaged in a war, waged with the avowed object of destroying the Union, have been claiming since they were defeated, that the Unionists of the country should forget the past, and in forgiveness bury the rancor of that disastrous conflict. The Democrate and Liberals of the North have advocated this doctrine, believing that it was wise statesmanship to let the dead past of the war of secession bury its dead. When Mr. Greeley died, and the electors of certain Southern states were asked to forget their hatred of Gen. Grant, and, since they could not elect a man after their own heart, to make Grant the president of the whole people, they refused to consent, and by voting in the manner they did, have said as plainly as an act can speak : "We can-'not forgive; we have no amnesty for the party from the hands of which amnesty can come to us; we take but do not give; we preach mercy, but if we were the victors we would have no mercy." If their act of voting for Gov. Hendricks could be tortured into any thing but a surly blow at President Grant, a spiteful expression of the hatred in which the Democrate of the South hold the people of the North, it might pass without comment; but, in loosing the opportunity to do a gracious act-to meet the president half-way in his policy of conciliation and oblivion -the representatives of the Southern people in the electoral college manifested a spirit which is indicative of the intolerance with which they would rule if they could procure the success of a party in which their policy would dominate.
